One Committee Cuts While Other Approves

Fleet Expansion Program To The House In March

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14.—(P)—The house naval committee gave final, unanimous approval to a two-year $655,000,000 fleet expansion program today less than 24 hours after another house committee slashed $111,699,699 from the president's budget for the navy.

The expansion program, specifically approved by the president, would permit the navy to construct 21 additional combat ships and 22 auxiliary vessels in the next two years.

Before taking final action on the program, the committee received a letter from Secretary Edison asserting the navy would have preferred the original three-year $1,300,000,000 expansion it recommended "because it would permit better planning and because of the deterrent effect of such a program presented to the world at this time."

As finally approved, the expansion bill would authorize construction of three additional aircraft carriers—bigger than any ships the navy has ever built for that purpose—and an unspecified number of cruisers and submarines.

The bill also would authorize increasing the navy's air force a minimum of 3,000 to a minimum of 4,500 planes.

Vinson said he hoped to bring the bill before the house during the first week in March.

Group For Slash

Despite presidential opposition to battleship cuts already made in the $966,772,878 navy appropriation bill, there was talk today that the House might trim the huge measure even further.

Members from farm states, representing drastic economies made in the agriculture appropriation bill two weeks ago, were reported ready to vote for additional slashes in the navy bill. Farm bloc leaders insisted, however, that there was no concerted movement in that direction by their group.

The $111,699,699 lopped from the navy bill by the House appropriations committee yesterday, including $23,105,000 for four new 45,000-ton battleships and four cruisers, brought a statement from President Roosevelt that he hoped funds to build two of the battleships would be restored. Initial funds for the other two were provided last year.

In holding up all but $2,950,000 of the money, the committee said it had learned that the projected battleships and cruisers would be virtually the same as those under construction abroad. It expressed belief that they should be made superior to anything afloat or in prospect.

Murray Trial Set For March 4

KANSAS CITY, Feb. 14.—(P)—Matthew S. Murray, former state WPA administrator, will go to trial in federal court March 4 on charges of income tax evasion.

The date was set today by Judge Albert L. Reeves who will hear the case. Murray waived the right of a trial by jury.

Murray was indicted last October for evading taxes on $89,824 in five years. In support of his request for a trial by judge, Murray's attorneys made an issue of the character of certain funds he received. They contend these funds were gratuities or gifts and not subject to tax, an issue defense attorneys prefer to submit to a judge rather than a jury.

Their motions for the government to make its charges more definite and for permission to question treasury agents were denied.

Murray served as city director of public works from 1926 until 1939 and as state WPA administrator from 1936 to 1939.

Paul Sterling To Vets Hospital

Paul Sterling, Sedalian, who was dangerously injured some weeks ago in an automobile accident near Rogers, Ark., has been moved from the hospital at Rogers to the U. S. Veterans' hospital in Fayetteville, Ark.

His sister, Mrs. James M. Long, 510 West Fourth street, is with him and has been since he was taken to the Rogers' hospital. Mr. Long, who has been there for several days, returned home Monday.

Mr. Sterling developed pneumonia last week and was in a critical condition, but is now better. He is suffering from a broken arm, badly fractured knee cap, fractured skull and an injury caused when the steering wheel punctured his chest, and other minor injuries.

Seeks Supreme Court Ruling On Jury Affairs

Governor Stark Asks It Relative To Secrets

JEFFERSON CITY, Feb. 14.—(P)—Gov. Lloyd C. Stark demanded today that the state supreme court be asked to determine if grand jury secrets were violated in the dismissal of a criminal indictment against Kansas City's finance director last week.

Citing last Saturday's dismissal of the indictment against A. L. Darby, who had been accused of illegally transferring funds, the governor asked Attorney General Roy McKittrick to "take whatever steps are necessary" to present this matter to the supreme court.

"It is my understanding," Stark wrote, "that members of the grand jury which indicted Darby, in the hearing on the motion to quash, were compelled by the court to testify as to matters which occurred inside and outside the grand jury room.

"It is also my understanding that under the laws of Missouri grand jurors cannot testify as to matters pertaining to their work as grand jurors, except 'in matters of perjury.'

"Therefore, I officially request that you protect the public's interest by immediately taking whatever steps are necessary within the time required by law to properly present this matter to the supreme court for its decision."

Looks Up Law

McKittrick, who received notice of the letter today, said "I am looking up the law and I'll take whatever steps are open to me to get the matter before the supreme court."

Darby was indicted last November by a grand jury called by Circuit Judge Paul A. Buzard in Kansas City. The indictment accused him of illegally disbursing funds by converting $7,500 from the water department sinking fund to the "emergency fund" which was maintained by the late H. F. McElroy, then city manager.

The indictment was thrown out of court last Saturday on a "plea in abatement." Several members of the Buzard grand jury were called as witnesses at the Saturday

Threat To Quit School Board

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 14.—(P)—Mark D. Eagleton, president of the St. Louis board of education, who has testified before a grand jury investigating the public school scandals, announced today he would resign because of dissatisfaction with the board's actions.

Eagleton expressed indignation at the board's failure to take the initial step toward removal of one of its members, Richard Murphy, who has been confined at home by illness since disclosures he sold more than $150,000 in stocks and bonds to school relief funds used for speculation by Dr. Henry J. Gerling, former superintendent of instruction.

Gerling resigned last Jan. 14.

Over Eagleton's protest, the board voted seven to three to excuse Murphy's absence from its meeting last night. A state law provides a member is automatically ousted if he is absent from three regular board meetings without being excused.

"If the board wants to harbor Murphy and take him to their bosom, I'm through," Eagleton declared.

Rescue Negro Women From Hands of Mob

Calm At Snow Hill After Night Of Wild Disorder

SNOW HILL, Md., Feb. 14.—(P)—Heavily-armed state police poured into this eastern shore community to restore calm today after a night of wild disorder climaxed when four state troopers waded in to rescue two Negro women from the hands of a threatening mob of 1,000 men.

After hours of milling around the trail, caught up with the crowd at Stockton, where Harvey Pilchard was shot to death Sunday night by three Negro men who seriously wounded his wife.

The troopers, taking up the trail, caught up with the crowd at Stockton, where Harvey Pilchard was shot to death Sunday night by three Negro men who seriously wounded his wife.

There, led by Lieut. Ruxton Ridgely, they battled apparently hopeless numbers briefly but viciously, seized the women—a mother and daughter—and dashed to safety across the Delaware line 50 miles away. Sgt. W. H. Weber suffered painful head injuries and at least two civilians were hurt.

The officers said the women probably would be brought to Baltimore today for safe-keeping.

By the margin of some 30 minutes, Sheriff J. William Hall and his deputies spiraled away a Negro man who had been held as a suspect in the jail battered open by the mob.

He was taken to Salisbury, Md., and held there with a fourth Negro while the steadily growing crowd noisily demanded that Hall give up his prisoners. Refusing to accept the sheriff's word that the man was not there, four civilians were designated to look over the jail.

"It is also my understanding that under the laws of Missouri grand jurors cannot testify as to matters pertaining to their work as grand jurors, except 'in matters of perjury.'

"Therefore, I officially request that you protect the public's interest by immediately taking whatever steps are necessary within the time required by law to properly present this matter to the supreme court for its decision."

Appreciative Over Big Success Of The C. Of C. Pancake Day

"I think everybody in Sedalia now knows the Pancake Day was held in the McGrath building on Ohio avenue Tuesday, February 13, because I know most everybody in Sedalia supported it in one way or another, either working or donating, or eating pancakes," states Howard Roberts, general chairman of Pancake Day.

"If there was any question in anybody's mind of the business men and the public in Sedalia working together and supporting the Chamber of Commerce for the betterment of Sedalia, they realize now that they do and will work together. And we hope the public is enjoying having the men serve them, as well as the business men all enjoyed serving them, and being together.

"As this first Pancake Day was a success both financially and civicly and its success was only made possible through the untiring efforts of all of the committee chairmen and their committees, as well as the different civic groups, and the business men of Sedalia, the splendid group of donators in supporting this program by donating so graciously of all of the products used, as well as the general public all doing their part in supporting this day.

cious response for everything that was asked of them. Not knowing of any other method to contact you all, may I extend to you, each and every one for any part you played in this program, my sincere personal thanks, as well as the thanks from my entire committee."

The Scavenger Gang Grows

Away down at the bottom of American society—so far down that most people scarcely know about it—is a growing army of dirty, bedraggled, shiftless, indifferent misfits, who are causing local officials considerable concern.

It is the Scavenger Gang—the people who live in makeshift huts and lean-tos or tattered tents along river banks, in fields on the outskirts of town, or, more often, on the fringes of city dumps. They are usually spiritless men and women, offering nothing but bleak promise to their grimy offspring. They are men who don't want jobs, but are righteously indignant when relief trucks, loaded with free food, are late in arriving.

Most people don't know about these conditions first hand. It is not pleasant to know about them. They have seen the shacks, perhaps, from a distance. But they have never been up close. They have never met the residents. They have never been inside to see the dirt floors, the broken, improvised furniture, the filthy clothes. Those who have ventured a closer inspection have usually been thoroughly nauseated.

If the Scavenger Gang could be left alone, to diminish of its own inertia, perhaps that would be the best way to handle the situation. But its numbers don't diminish. They've been increasing in the past 10 years. Their families are large, and new members are being born into them. While the problem once was of such slight importance that it could be overlooked almost by city officials and sociologists, it is no longer of trivial consequence.

To themselves, the members of Scavenger Gangs are utterly worthless; to society, they are rapidly becoming dangerous. The older members of the gang are too indolent to attempt crime of any kind except possibly petty pilfering from refuse dumps. But their children have not yet had all their spirit knocked out of them.

The youngsters are not content to sit forever in grime. They want action and excitement, and the only way to get it that they know of is to turn to crime. As a result, juvenile agencies in many communities have found the problem of the Scavenger Gangs tossed right into their laps—and they know there isn't much they can do about it.

What can anyone do about these people? How are you going to find jobs for them if they don't want jobs? How are you going to do anything to help them if they are unwilling to help themselves?

They can't stay—and yet, they can't go. There's no place for them to go, except possibly to new Scavenger camps in other cities. Arbitrarily driving them out isn't going to help matters. Juggling them around won't decrease their numbers.

The easiest way, of course, is to try to forget that they exist—to look out the other window when we drive past their ill-kept colonies. But they can't be brushed aside that easily for long. Eventually the folks who have closed their eyes to an unpleasant sight will discover they are confronted with a serious matter that can no longer be shrugged aside.

A Job-Few Applicants

The City of New York has a perfectly good $4500-a-year teaching job open in its school system—but there were only three persons on hand prepared to take an examination for the post.

The job is that of teaching radio communications. New York has plenty of people who could use a $4500 job. Apparently it has only three qualified to try for it. The same situation developed a couple of times before when teaching positions were available in other technical fields.

The trouble is that those people in the radio communications field haven't got the necessary credits for teaching. And those people with the academic preparation aren't qualified for technical subjects. People who take up radio and other term courses. Those who spend more time in school away from technical subjects and concentrate on the more popular fields.

How much more needs to be done in the field of vocational guidance is evident whenever something like the New York situation pops up.

• The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Drew Pearson and Robert S. Allen

WASHINGTON — According to most of the people of Louisiana there have been two Louisiana Purchases. One was in 1803 when the struggling young Government of the United States purchased the vast Louisiana territory from France.

The second was in 1936 when the Roosevelt Administration suddenly wired the U. S. district attorney in New Orleans to drop the income tax suits against Seymour Weiss and other Huey Long supporters. Shortly thereafter Seymour Weiss, previously bitter against Roosevelt, appeared at the Democratic National Convention in Philadelphia as an enthusiastic Roosevelt rooster, and the entire Louisiana delegation voted for the President's nomination.

Now in 1940 comes the report of a Third Louisiana Purchase. A good part of the New Orleans is buzzing with rumor that the grand jury investigation of the Maestri-Long machine, which rules southern Louisiana, suddenly has been dropped on orders from Washington. Furthermore, it is reported that in return for this the Maestri-Long machine will support Roosevelt for a third term.

The run-off primary election in Louisiana takes place on February 20, winding up the hot gubernatorial race between Huey's brother, Earl Long, and Sam Jones. Further indictments of the Maestri-Long machine would of course tend to swing the election to Jones, which for the first time in years would free Louisiana from Hueyism.

The Real Facts

Rumors of a Third Louisiana Purchase have become so persistent recently that The Washington Merry-Go-Round has made a careful check of the facts, and is able to report the following:

The first primary election in Louisiana this year took place on January 16. The week before January 16, a federal grand jury was sitting in New Orleans considering indictments for selling hot oil. Among those whom the grand jury had under investigation were William Helis, one of the biggest oil operators in Louisiana, and his partner, Robert Maestri, Mayor of New Orleans and backbone of the Long machine.

On Friday, January 12, while the grand jury was in session, John Rogge, Assistant Attorney General in charge of the Justice Department's criminal division, got a telephone call from Washington and stepped out of the jury room. He had been in New Orleans handling the Louisiana prosecution personally and had done a spectacular job.

Rogge was absent from the jury room for nearly an hour. When he returned, he informed the grand jury that he had been talking to Washington, and that it was Washington's wishes that no political figures be indicted until after elections.

This provoked considerable resentment from the grand jury, one of whose leaders protested: Aren't we the grand jury? It is for us to decide whom we shall indict, not Washington."

However, Rogge, although obviously not pleased with his telephone instructions from Washington, persuaded the grand jury to suspend its operations, so that it could resume after elections.

NOTE — The Justice Department, when questioned about this, admitted the telephonic instructions were sent to Rogge but said it was made clear the grand jury could proceed on Wednesday, January 17, one day after elections.

Maestri's Partner Indicted

However, Earl Long, the Maestri candidate, did not win on January 16, and the grand jury was not called back on January 17. In fact, it has not been called back at all. Presumably this was because of the second runoff election on February 20 and presumably also because any more indictments of "political figures" still would upset the Huey Long machine.

Particularly significant is the fact that on January 12, the day Rogge got the phone call from Washington, William Helis was indicted. Presumably Helis was not a "political figure." However, he is the partner of Maestri, Mayor Maestri, a "political figure," was not indicted.

Since the Justice Department officials have explained that through a technicality in the hot oil law — the fact that it was not promulgated — Maestri is in a position where he did not violate a federal law, even though he made a fortune in hot oil.

In Louisiana, however, it is pointed out that a state law provides that no member of the Louisiana Conservation Commission can hold oil leases or royalty rights, and that Maestri while chairman of the Conservation Commission held such leases. Furthermore, Justice Department officials admit that anyone who violates the state law can be prosecuted for fraudulent use of the mails.

They explained that Maestri says that when he was chairman of the Conservation Commission, he was not familiar with the law which prohibited him from owning oil leases.

Forthright John Rogge is back in New Orleans now, and he may reopen the whole case. But the betting is he won't do it until after the election of February 20, when Earl Long probably will be re-elected.

Who Quashed The Jury?

Last chapter in the Third Louisiana Purchase is the question, "Who arranged it?"

One clue to this is that Senator Ellender, sometimes branded the "Maestri-Long messenger boy in Washington," was very busy blasting Rogge for holding his grand jury investigation just prior to the election. This is public record. But Ellender alone is not powerful enough to call off Rogge.

Records of the Justice Department show that Senator Ellender made no trips to see the Attorney General immediately prior to the phone call of January 12. However, Senator Ellender has not been backward in calling at the White House.

If you will go to No. 8817 West Pico street, Los Angeles, Calif., you will find a barber shop; There should be a bronze tablet to show what once happened in the barber shop that stood there originally.

The reason a marker should be there is because the first barber shop once served as an office for a young man named Douglas. Full name — Donald W. Douglas. Do you recognize him?

In 1920 he wanted to launch into airplane manufacturing, and so he went to Los Angeles. He had had experience with the Glenn L. Martin company, and now was going out for himself.

His money went faster than a China Clipper. But he would not give up the idea of becoming a manufacturer. He had rented an office; and then pretty soon he didn't have any office. Tossed out.

He told the barber who had been cutting his hair about his troubles and the barber invited him to use his shop as an office, and that is exactly what young Douglas did. And there he worked over his plans and blueprints.

He met a rich Los Angeles sportsman who was also a flying enthusiast. And there as the sportsman sat in the chair and was shaved and dressed, Donald Douglas got him interested in the building of an airplane. The upshot of it was that the man gave Douglas an order for a private plane. Together they worked out their plans, and Douglas built the airplane in an old planing mill in Los Angeles.

The sportsman tried to make a non-stop flight in it across the United States, but was forced down near El Paso, Texas. The plane had failed, but the sportsman still believed in young Douglas and agreed to finance him on a trip to Washington to sell planes to the United States Navy. Douglas came back to Los Angeles on an order for $120,000 worth of airplanes. He now had two very necessary requisites; an order and enthusiasm, but no money. He had to have $15,000 before he could start. This is the way he got it: He knew one man would not put up that much money, so he went to ten men in Los Angeles and got each of them to put up $1,500.

Now he had the money. He rushed the work; the navy liked the planes; he got his payment. Then he went ahead in a bigger way. More planes. The same flying enthusiasm.

A man like that is bound to succeed. Today he has the largest unsubsidized privately-owned airplane factory in the world. He has 11,000 men and women employed in his two plants at Santa Monica and El Segundo. He expected to have a thousand more by January, 1940. His planes are now known all over the world.

Donald Douglas succeeded chiefly because he would not give up

Fellowship Of Prayer

Abreast of Life

Wednesday, February 14. If we live in the Spirit, let us also walk in the Spirit.—Read Galatians 5:16-26.

"Life," St. Paul is saying in substance, "is an affair of many heights and depths." There are selective levels of interest, occupation or loyalty upon which we may live. Those who choose the lower levels are in bonds to sense and selfishness; they choose the downhill roads whose shadowed terminals are soon and sadly reached.

The true progress of life is a journey toward the heights; "He must onward still and upward who would keep abreast of life." As we live and labor in love, as we seek for each new day some new measure of goodness and happiness, as faith and gentleness become our habit and noble self-control our law, then we live in the spirit, guided by the Divine. That road leads uphill all the way, but its ways are pleasantness, its paths are peace, its horizons widen as we climb. There is always room ahead and its terminals are "... the shining table-lands. To which our God Himself is moon and sun."

Prayer:

Lord of the Ascending Ways of Life, forbid that we whose spirits Thou has made akin to Thine, should seek such ways of life as lead to sorrow and sadness, but rather that we may grow in spiritual wisdom and being inwardly strengthened may abound in the fruits of Thy spirit. Amen.

A reception at Hotel Bothwell will follow.

Miss Betty Lue Peterson and James W. Newland were married at noon Sunday by the Rev. W. P. Arnold, pastor of the East Sedalia Baptist church in Sedalia, at the home of the bridegroom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Newland, north of Sedalia.

The couple was attended by Miss Merlene Payne and Warren Hood, and witnessing the ceremony also were a number of relatives and close friends.

The bride wore navy blue and a corsage of white rose buds and her maid of honor wore pink, with white roses.

At a reception, which followed the wedding, the bride cut the wedding cake, a three tier cake, surrounded by candles.

The bride and bridegroom are spending a short honeymoon at the Lake of the Ozarks.

Members of the Marcum and Steele families met at the Earl Marcum family, near Syracuse, on highway 50, Sunday. All contributed to a noonday lunch.

The proceeds from this sale will be used for the campaign program for girl scouting in Sedalia. A well planned camping program aids our girls in making their lives healthier and happier and makes them better able to live as good citizens under a democratic form of government.

Several individual awards will be given to the Girl Scouts selling the most cookies and an award will also be given to the troop which sells the largest number of boxes. These awards will be announced later.

The committee in charge of the cookie sale is as follows: Mrs. D. Kelly Scruton, Mrs. Abe Bertman, Mrs. J. H. Bagby, Mrs. Paul Hederick, Mrs. George H. Trader, Mrs. Harry Harnsberger, J. C. Campbell, and Joseph Reid.

'Gas' Tax Hike Be Considered

Proposal For November Ballot Is Taking Form

JEFFERSON CITY, Feb. 14.—(P—A three-cent gasoline tax proposal for November's ballot took form today behind a highway commission estimate that nearly $11,000,000 would be available for new road construction in Missouri this year.

The recent highway planning survey estimated $14,000,000 would be needed each year just to maintain the present system. Last year about $7,000,000 went into new construction contracts.

Backers of the new road plan met briefly with the highway commission yesterday, then named a sub-committee to work out a three-cent tax plan to be submitted to the voters in the general election.

The added penny would be split between cities and counties for locally-controlled road work. That feature is a new departure for three-cent tax programs which have been beaten at the polls and in the legislature the past two years.

Committee Chosen

The committee which will work out the road proposal will be composed of E. S. Bond, presiding Judge of the Cole County court; Roy F. Britton, St. Louis, president of the Automobile Club of Missouri; William Hirth of Columbia, president of the Farmers Association; U. G. Lewellen, secretary of the Pe-trolium Industries committee, and George A. Spencer of Columbia, secretary of the Missouri Municipal League.

Representatives of these groups agreed with the highway commission's revenue estimates yesterday, the first time in years

all factions have come to an understanding on road balances in Missouri. Differences in financial estimates caused the hottest debates of previous three-cent gas tax campaigns.

The highway commission's estimate of $10,949,058 for new road work this year is nearly

$3,300,000 more than was contracted for in 1939 highway building. The added money comes from increased revenue and a $937,000 balance with which the department started the year. Last year began with a $225,000 deficit.

The commission placed 1940

anticipated revenue at $22,969,-

705. Ten million dollars of the amount would come from license fees and more than $12,000,000 from the two-cent gasoline tax.

Congratulations

Rural Light Group Has 1st Anniversary

200 Members Attend Electric Cooperative's Meeting Here

The Central Missouri Electric Cooperative celebrated its first anniversary Tuesday with over 200 members attending the meeting in the assembly room of the Pettis county court house.

The cooperative, whose funds come from the Rural Electrification Administration allotment, is now furnishing electricity to over 700 farm homes in Pettis and Saline counties.

The program started in the morning with a business meeting, followed by several talks. Late in the afternoon the members looked over displays of electrical appliances in the lobby of the court house.

Project Attorney Speaks

Henry C. Salveter, project attorney, gave a talk on "The Formation and Government of Your Cooperative".

J. U. Morris, county extension agent, spoke on "We Face the Future", explaining what should be done in the future for the cooperative to be a success and giving pertinent suggestions.

"Cooperative spirit is necessary," Morris said, "to keep an enterprise a going concern at all times."

"A successful cooperative must be properly financed to build and equip the plant and have a balance for operating capital", Morris continued. "R. E. A. has financed the project—but this money is borrowed and must be paid back", the county agent reminded.

Put Current To Work

"We must put our electric current to work so we can meet our bills", he emphasized, "and in turn meet the interest and principal payments and operating costs".

In conclusion Morris said, "R. E. A. is an added service to the farm home, a new way of doing things that will contribute to more healthful living and lighten the burdens of the farm family".

W. F. Schieberl, project superintendent, told of the development of the project and how the work is handled, including contracts, construction, energizing and maintenance.

Directors Are Reelected

All members of the board of directors were elected for another year. They are: Thomas J. Raines, Mrs. Edward Hefferman, J. D. DeJarnette, L. T. Stauffer, Otto H. Pinkepank, Mrs. Reba Williams, Edward Marsh, Willard Howe and J. T. Harper.

The lines to date have cost over $300,000 in the two counties, superintendent Schieberl announced. Nine or ten miles of line were energized southwest Sedalia Tuesday.

R. M. Rogers To Hospital

Robert M. Rogers, of Sedalia, route 4, is in the Bothwell hospital for surgical treatment. Mr. Rogers was injured January 22 while on duty as an upholsterer at the Sedalia shops.

day hearing before Circuit Judge John F. Cook.

Criticized Governor

Previously, Circuit Judge Marion D. Walther, in dismissing an indictment against Prosecutor W. W. Graves, had criticized Governor Stark and his special investigators for "tampering" with the grand jury affairs in Kansas City.

In this letter to McKittrick Stark said:

"With all due respect to the trial court, it seems to me that this matter is one of such far-reaching importance to the people of Missouri, that the question involved should be submitted to the supreme court for clarification."

Apparently the chief question will be whether grand jurors can be brought before other courts to testify to matters which occurred within a grand jury room.

In passing the governor took a shot at McElroy's "emergency fund" — a citter of millions which was bandied with criticism during the height of the anti-Pendergast offensive in Kansas City. Stark mentioned that Darby had been indicted for transferring money to the "city manager's emergency fund, which fund had no legal status."

Today's matter marked the third time in 14 months that Stark had ordered Attorney General Roy McKittrick into the Kansas City situation.

A year ago last Christmas week he told the attorney general to help "clean up" Kansas City by making his own investigation of conditions there and assisting a grand jury called by Circuit Judge Allen C. Southern. Several indictments resulted from that investigation.

A few weeks later Stark told McKittrick to bring an ouster suit against Prosecutor Graves. McKittrick filed ousters against both Graves and Sheriff James L. Williams. Both matters are still pending in the state supreme court.

Roosevelt Off For Vacation

BY D. HAROLD OLIVER

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14—(P)—President Roosevelt still silent on his political future, heads for a southern vacation cruise today after one of his strongest third term supporters, Ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy, renounced any ambition to be the Democratic standard bearer.

The chief executive plans to be away about ten days, but he gave no indication of his route. This will bring him up to the February 24 deadline when his name — unless he withdraws it — will go officially into the Illinois presidential primary.

Third term supporters believe that he will let his name remain before the Illinois voters, especially since most politicians argue this can be done without his personal consent. Vice-president Garner has approved entry of his own name in Illinois.

D. W. Thomson Is Commissioner

David W. Thomson was re-elected to succeed himself as one of the three Twelve Mile Road Commissioners, for a three year period, Tuesday afternoon, by the city council and county court, meeting jointly in the county court room. The vote was unanimous. Mayor J. H. Bagby and seven members of the council were present, Walter Pinkerton being absent.

Other commissioners, whose terms hold over, are Dr. M. E. Gouge and C. A. Wingate.

Transient Arrested

Desert Johnson, Roy Clarkson, Robert Underwood and H. E. Payne, all transients were arrested this morning by Sheriff W. L. Marlin, charged with vagrancy. They are held in the county jail.

Appointed As Deputy

J. B. Bernard, 672 East Seventeenth street, has been appointed a deputy constable, by Constable Forrest Poindexter, to serve for one month.

Crew of Vessel Sunk By Submarine Saved

OSLO, Feb. 14—(P)—A British plane, sighting the crew of the 5,177-ton Danish steamer Chastine Maerst the day after the vessel had been sunk, called a Norwegian ship which saved all of the crew of 30.

Survivors said a submarine sank their ship.

a proclamation of unbroken resistance and a renewed plea for help from abroad.

Immediate Aid Sought

"Thus far, the Finnish army is able to hold its own, but we really rely on civilized nations of the world to relieve us in this situation," said the Finnish Ministry of Information.

The statement, made last night, was read to correspondents as if it were part of an accompanying description of the Karelian Isthmus warfare from the Finnish high command. The ministry corrected this impression today.

The renewed plea for aid of all kinds — men and material, especially planes — reflects the military feeling, however.

The ministry disclosed the foreign office had sent notes to foreign governments declaring the Russian forces were violating international principles of warfare.

In the headquarters statement, Finland's soldiers were pictured clinging to redoubts and breastworks in the blood-splotched snows of the Karelian Isthmus and even counterattacking in force at propitious moments.

Military authorities acknowledged that the Mannerheim Line had been bent — but not broken — by the Reds' effort to break through in the Summa sector to strike Viipuri, Finland's second largest city, just behind the line.

The crowd, although broken into several small groups, wandered about the county in the early hours.

In a dismal, ice-clogged swamp near Pocomone City, other officers searched for still another Negro suspect known to be hiding there and believed wounded yesterday by a posse.

Finland's plight, turned graver after the ceaseless Russian onslaught against the main defense lines, was made plain by a Finnish spokesman last night.

Inquiry Over Previous Jury

KANSAS CITY, Feb. 14—(P)—One Jackson County grand jury apparently began an investigation of a predecessor jury today — the one which indicted County Prosecutor W. W. Graves last winter for neglect of official

All members of that jury were subpoenaed by Graves' own investigator to appear before the new jury, impaneled last week.

After the indictments against the prosecutor were dropped by Circuit Judge Marion D. Walther, Graves asserted he would ask the new grand jury to inquire into reported unlawful activity by the indicting jurors. He obtained an allowance of $4,000 from the county court to pay an investigator.

In dismissing one of the four indictments against Graves, Judge Walther said it was apparent outside influence had been exerted unlawfully upon the jury. Last week, Circuit Judge John F. Cook sustained a plea in abatement to an indictment returned by another grand jury against A. L. Darby, city finance director, for the same reason.

At his trial, Graves' counsel asserted at least some of the members of the grand jury were taken clandestinely by night to Jefferson City while their investigation was in progress, and that unauthorized lawyers advised them in their activities.

Subpoenas also were issued for Hal W. Luhnow, chairman of the United Campaign committee, which directed the fight for yesterday's "cleanup" election, and Frederick E. Whitten, long-time head of the Pendergast machine.

sored assurances of the quartet that the men had been taken away. Hall invited them all in, two-by-two, and they marched through the jail, taunting the covering Negro women. Momentarily the mob dispersed, only to gather in larger numbers about an hour later.

Women Terrorized

This time they brought hacksaws and crowbars to effect an entrance. The jailer and his wife watched helplessly a dozen men bearing a rope crawled through a window and terrorized the women, saying "how would you like to have this around your neck?"

The screaming women, booked under the names of Martha Blake, 31, and Lillian Virginia Blake, 14, were dragged out and loaded into cars for the ride to Stockton. Police said the crowd did not harm them but bought food and clothing "in an effort to get them to tell" about Pilchard's slaying.

Lieut. Ridgely, Sergeant Webster, and Troopers Charles A. Disney and Harold C. Carl, staged their surprise rescue that left battered heads and bruises among the maimed men. Webster got the women away while the others stood off the mob.

Express Views On 'Safety Zone'

BERLIN, Feb. 14—The German government declared today that the Pan-American neutrality "safety zone" plan can succeed "only if the known English and French standpoint is fundamentally revised."

The German view was stated in a note replying to a protest sent by the Pan-American neutrality conference last December, a few days after the German pocket battleship Admiral Graf Spee engaged in an all-day running gun battle with three British cruisers just off the Uruguayan coast.

Administrator Of Canada

The German government in its note today said that it could "anticipate success of further pursuance of the security zone plan" only if the Allies' stand is changed.

Great Britain in her reply to the Pan-American protest on Jan. 15 rejected the neutrality zone as "ineffective" and reserved her belligerent rights in the area, which extends roughly for 300 miles off the coast of the Americas. Britain said acceptance would depend on assurance the area would not afford a "vast sanctuary" for German warships.

Meanwhile, in a Salisbury hospital, Mrs. Pilchard was reported resting comfortably from the bullet wound in the back, suffered when she fled to the attic of her home after seeing her husband shot to death. The three men demanded money and shot the couple after she gave them $18.

All Sunday night she lay on the roof of their home, having crawled there from an attic window. Discovered about daybreak, she was removed, suffering also from shock and exposure.

The German stand was outlined in a note handed to the foreign minister of Panama by German Charge D'Affaires Winter.

The German government said it regarded the American government's note of Dec. 24 as "unfounded," because in the waters concerned only "current rules of law can be authoritative."

There are some really great improvements in electric refrigeration which have come about in the last two or three years. For instance, when one opens the door of the modern electric refrigerator, an automatic light floods the interior, shelves slide out and are held rigid just like a drawer in a table. Crispers are built into the box so that lettuce, celery, and such vegetables do not dry out and are kept crisp and fresh. One can make plenty of ice cubes, frozen desserts, and ice cream. There are many other important conveniences just like these.

However, the greatest improvement probably is the introduction of the freeze-or-cold idea. One has heard about locker plants; central plants where farmers or townspeople can rent locker space in which to keep sides of beef and other bulk meat for indefinite periods. Undoubtedly everyone knows the value of frozen foods, for they are so well advertised. Now in some of the new refrigerators there is space to freeze indefinitely, such foods as meat, fish, fowl, berries, fruit and vegetables fresh and green right after they are picked. Of course this space is small and will not take the place of the freezer locker system entirely. One caution is to pack and preserve these frozen foods until one is ready to use them. One should not let them thaw and re-freeze. This new feature is really an amazing thing. It has only been available for the last few years. That is the reason one can say the farm wife, when she buys an electric refrigerator today certainly is getting the very last word in modern convenience.

Delay On Any Embargo Action

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14—(P)—The Senate foreign relations committee today postponed formal consideration of proposals to embargo exports to Japan, but the chairman, Pittman (D-Nev.) predicted that an embargo resolution would win committee approval this session.

He said the group would continue discussions next week. No decisions were reached today, he declared, because so many members were unfamiliar with the pending legislation.

Senator Connally (D-Tex.) summed up the meeting thus:

"We fired a few blanks and fell back."

Missouri Leads Big Six By A Victory Of 33 to 27

6,000 Fans See Tigers' Trick Shots

Sooners Drop To Third Place In Basketball Race

NORMAN, Okla., Feb. 14.—(P)—Missouri's classy Tigers caught Oklahoma with her hot shots in a slump last night and took over the lead in the Big Six conference basketball race with a clean-cut 33 to 27 victory which hammered the Sooners all the way down to third place.

Six thousand fans watched the boys from the "show me" state show the home club a baffling set of trick shots that carried them to the head of the parade with six wins in seven starts, a full game ahead of Kansas.

McNatt Slows Down

Jimmy McNatt, Oklahoma's all-conference forward who poured 30 points through the hoop against Nebraska only four nights ago to break his own league record, couldn't make his shots drop and he didn't get much help from his mates, with the exception of Herb Scheffler, senior center.

The lead see-sawed in the early minutes, but the Tigers forged ahead before the first period was half gone and there they stayed. It was Blaine Currence, with his unguardable one-handed turn shots, and John Lobsiger, with deadly accuracy from a distance, who ran the Sooners dizzy in the first stanza.

Tigers Lead Midway

Missouri opened the second period with a 22 to 15 advantage and Clay Cooper, veteran forward, took over the scoring chores with a one-handed push shot that the Sooners couldn't touch.

Scheffler kept the Sooners from a complete rout, dunking five field goals and a trio of gift shots which were good for 13 points and individual scoring honors. McNatt hit only two of the 19 shots he took.

Lobsiger led the visitors with 10 points, while Currence and Cooper managed eight apiece.

It was Oklahoma's second defeat in eight conference games and left the Sooners a game and a half behind Kansas, which moved into second place with four victories and one defeat.

Ryder Team Masters The Amateurs

Hagen-Metz Defeated By Munger-Riegel Is Lone Amateur Win

BY FELIX R. MCKNIGHT
DALLAS, Tex., Feb. 14.—(P)—Professional goldsmith's greatest players, the United States Ryder Cup team, came to the very pillar of American amateur golf today and crushed all doubt that they were masters of the simon pure.

National Open Champion Byron Nelson, who yesterday won the $5,000 Texas Open tournament, led the pros through bitter north winds with a six-under-par round of 66 to wreck the Texas amateur team in a charity match.

Weather that hindered most of the pro and amateur troupe didn't slow down Lord Byron—around the par 36-36—72 Dallas County club course in 35-31-66.

Final score of the two-ball and four-ball matches, played on a point basis, was: Professionals, 26; amateurs, 4.

Walter Hagen, playing his first competitive round in many years, captained the Ryder Cuppers and shot two creditable rounds, including a 74.

But Nelson, ill on the Pacific coast swing and just returning to his game, was the man with the shots. Over the short 2,970-yard last nine he dropped five birdies and four pars.

He teamed with Harold McSpaden of Winchester, Mass., to defeat Harry Todd of Dallas, western amateur champion, and John Barnum of Edinburg, 4 and 3 in the four-ball feature match.

Lowest professional team of the day that of Slammin' Sam Snead, Shawnee-on-Delaware, Pa., and Ralph Guldahl. After feeling their way around the strange course in the morning, they stroked a seven-under-par 65 between them to beat Don Schumacher and O'Hara Watts of Dallas, 4 and 3. Snead, who pumped one tee shot 30 feet past the pin on the 327-yard thirteenth hole, just missing his putt for a deuce, was 70.

The only amateur combination able to make a dent in the pro lineup was that of Jack Munger of Dallas, former southern champion, and Bobby Riegel of Houston, once a member of the Walker Cup squad. They defeated Hagen and Dick Metz in the two-ball match, two up but lost their four-ball match, one down.

Results of the matches included:

Four Ball:

Horton Smith, Oak Park, Ill., and Paul Runyan, White Plains, N.Y., defeated David Goldman and Reynolds Smith of Dallas, 3 points to none. (Match score, 4 and 3.)

Troop 57 met Thursday, Feb. 8, after school in Mr. Husbands room in the high school. We planned a troop hike for Saturday, Feb. 10. We also decided to attend the Methodist church corner of Broadway and Engineer, Sunday, Feb. 11 in a group and in uniform.

Troop 59 met at the Elks Lodge Monday night, February 5 at 7:30. The meeting began with Boy Scout Oath and Laws led by Carl John Berry. We had ten members present. We drilled about half an hour then played O'Grady, Steal the Bacon and Ping Pong. We discussed some things concerning the troop. Dr. Floyd L. Lively is going to be our scoutmaster for while.

The meeting closed with the scoutmaster's benediction led by Ellwood Paxton.

Gerald Weaver, scribe.

Troop 60 met Monday night. Twenty scouts were present. Mr. Peak, our scoutmaster took all the scouts who were not yet second class to the board of review.

Scouts Raymond Moon, Joe Glenn Herrick, Harold Bradley, Tommy Mrs. Olds, Mrs. Leake, Mr. Pirtle and Lorraine Dedrick for their cooperation.

We wish to thank the following scouts who assisted in the chili supper: Chas. Beckham, Allen Appel, Jack Dedrick, Ernest Wollen and Bobby Bryant.

Dick Shea, scribe.

We then went across the street to the Broadway church. They had a very nice service. Dr. Waggoner was in charge and the speaker was from Clinton. We came back to the school and played games until 9:30 p.m. We closed with the scoutmaster's benediction.

Billy Middleton, scribe.

Troop 67 met Thursday, Feb. 8 at Horace Mann school. We played Steal the Bacon and Swatum. We practiced on several things. Visitors were Mr. Lynch, one of the scout's father, and Edgar and Junior Mead, two boy scouts transferring to our troop from the Catholic troop. Mr. Morrow was in charge of the meeting. We ended with the scoutmaster's benediction and the song "Softly Falls the Light of Day."

Smith-Cotton Beats Kirksville; First Conference Win

Tigers Come From Behind To Take Close Contest By 28 to 25 Score

The victory-starved Smith-Cotton basketball team came from behind in the final quarter Tuesday night to defeat Kirksville 28 to 25 and register their first conference win. The game was played on the local high school court.

Sedalia's junior high team defeated Houston 19 to 17 in a preliminary game.

Trailing by two points late in the fourth stanza, Bud Michaelis, Sedalia forward, stole the ball from an opponent and tossed it to a teammate, who scored the tying two points. Gardner, Tiger guard, flipped in a free throw to put Sedalia ahead with seconds to go.

A Kirksville player missed a close in shot and the Tiger recovered the ball, scoring the final marker as the game ended.

Michaelis played a good defensive game and also dropped in 14 points to take scoring honors.

Bryan, Kirksville center, who scored 14 points against Smith-Cotton in an earlier game, led his team with 10 markers.

Sedalia connected with 8 of their 15 charity tosses while Kirksville made only 5 in 11 attempts.

The north Missourians jumped to an early six-point lead but the Tigers pulled up to tie the score at the half, 15 all.

Landis Relaxes Rigid Ruling

BELLEAIR, Fla., Feb. 14.—(P)—Kenesaw Mountain Landis has reached a "compromise" with the embattled big league club owners.

The baseball commissioner, though still determined that all ball players should be protected from a career of bondage, yielded a trifle from his furious "seven points" of January 15. He has agreed to suspend temporarily two of his "seven points" to which the magnates object most strenuously, having to do with a club losing a minor leaguer com-that polled by Col. Fred Whitten, Fusionist candidate for mayor, two years ago. The machine elected Bryce Smith mayor that year with 119,855 votes.

The machine polled only 38,291 votes in favor of civil service, but it hardly tried to rally its ward clubs, still strongly organized. It didn't even get up a campaign fund.

The Reformists, on the other hand, wore themselves to a nub getting out the vote.

Hal W. Luhnow, chairman of the united campaign committee, under which all reform elements consolidated their efforts, called a meeting for today to discuss candidates.

Describing the election as a "victory for the citizenry," Luhnow invited all voters to "suggest whom they would like to see as officials of the city."

No Pendergast Statement

James M. Pendergast, head of the organization since his uncle, "Boss Tom," was sent to Leavenworth for income tax evasion, said merely "no statement" when asked to comment on the election.

Political insiders forecast that in April the machine will come to life again and sweep its own men into the city hall.

The Reformists estimate 25 percent of their strength did not vote. If they get this 25 percent in April it will give them a total of 95,000 at the most.

Thus if the machine gets out even 20,000 fewer than it got out for Bryce Smith in 1938 it will win.

The "ouster" amendment carried by 95,683 to 17,316 but the dominant Pendergast faction actively supported it, and the minority faction controlled by U. S. Rep. Joe Shannon did not oppose it.

The Reformists opposed the civil service proposal because the charter, ignored under the Pendergast regime, already provides civil service. The fire department is a Shannon stronghold.

The election—in contrast to previous years, when ballot theft, sluggings and even killings were common—was quiet.

The police department, removed recently from city hall control and put under a state board, kept strict order. Chief L. B. Reed, a former FBI agent, smacked one would-be double-voter on the nose.

The new day in Kansas City elections was well described by a voter who said:

"For 18 years I've been voting down here in the first ward (Pendergast territory), and today was the first time they ever let me mark my own ballot!"

Says Death Knell Sounded

JEFFERSON CITY, Feb. 14—(P)—Gov. Lloyd C. Stark declared today the recall election in Kansas City "sounds the death knell of the Pendergast machine and destroys the last vestiges of its influence throughout the state."

The governor said the election was a "smashing triumph not only for Kansas City and Jackson county but for all the great state of Missouri."

"That remarkable victory at the polls is convincing proof that the good people of Kansas City will not call off the fight until every evil influence that has infected their city and county government has been driven out of public office once and for all."

The governor said he felt that he expressed "the sentiment of the vast majority of Missouri's 4,000,000 people who are fighting for honesty and decency in government when I congratulate the citizens of Kansas City."

"In their efforts to preserve their community as a splendid example of a progressive American city rich in cultural life, bustling with commercial activity and boasting an honest, efficient government, the people of Kansas City have the good wishes and solid support of their friends in Missouri and throughout the nation."

Permit To Volunteer

LONDON, Feb. 14—(P)—Britain today gave her citizens formal permission to volunteer to fight for Finland against Soviet Russia.

Ivan Maisky, Russia's ambassador, sat in the diplomatic gallery as Osbert Peake, undersecretary for home affairs, announced the decision in reply to questions in the House of Commons.

The government's action regularizes the enlistment of British volunteers for the Finnish forces which has been under way on a considerable scale for some time.

Only those over 27 years of age, or who for other reasons are unlikely to be called for Britain's own service, are free to join the Finns.

"Hundreds" of these have been reported unofficially as enlisting, with the first group due to leave soon.

A small group of 500 "blue ribbon" fighting men of military experience was reported being given special training for service in Finland. The group includes engineers capable of placing railroads and bridges in shape for major military efforts.
